Quotes for Today

The real voyage of discovery consists of not in seeking new landscapes but in having new eyes. - Marcel Proust

"The church has a mission" is incorrect. The more correct statement is "the mission has a church." - Alan Hirsch

When a team outgrows individual performance and learns team confidence, excellence becomes a reality. - Joe Paterno

From the Pastor

OK, now what?

It's been fun to celebrate our church's 175th. It's been good to learn a little bit about how and when Mount Hermon Baptist got started and to appreciate its long-time presence in this part of Chesterfield County. Now it's time to ask...

OK, where do we go from here?

You created a Vision/Planning Team to address this important question. For the better part of two years, they have: thought, studied, prayed, discussed, and weighed the matter from many different angles. There are so many factors at work. A dizzying array of cultural shifts, social trends, community developments, and changes in family dynamics are shaping the American religious landscape in 2010. The team tried to understand these forces as well as our church's present strengths and "where we are today". From there, the attempt has been to envision how we might do God's work in the most effective ways.

Now the Vision/Planning team feels ready to offer the church a Mission Statement and Vision Statements to consider. Those who receive this newsletter by mail will find it in this week's mailing. Those who get this via email will find it attached. Everyone is asked to realize that this is a starting point in our vision-casting. The process will move forward. It is far from exhaustive and is being kept simple for good reasons.

The Mission Statement focuses on our basic purpose as a church. A useful mission statement is brief, accurate, and memorable. The three Vision Statements amplify different elements of the Mission Statement, much like three branches of the same tree. They state some basic things we wish to do. The Action statements get specific about HOW and WHEN we will carry out our envisioned goals. The Mission and Vision statements are useless without these action steps.

Read these statements. Think and pray over them. In weeks and months ahead, we will be talking about these proposals together. And when we have applied our collective wisdom, we will affirm these statements (or some variation of them) as our beginning point for the direction we feel led to go.

I will take the message time on Sunday mornings in July to look at these Biblical imperatives and explain further what they mean. Join me on this journey. It is full of exciting possibilities if we all work together to make it our reality.

Yours in Him,

Lee

Flowers in the worship center this Sunday are placed in memory of Mr. & Mrs. O. Alvin Kelley in honor of their wedding anniversary, June 27. Mr. Kelley established the Dorothy Kelley Scholarship at MHBC in memory of his beloved wife.
